

I do think that violent television has a negative impact on children BUT it is the parents responsibility to make sure that their children are not watching this stuff. There are ways that they can keep their children from viewing these things such a the v-chip and you can also put a password on your tv and block certain stations. You cannot punish everyone by keeping violence off tv because some parents cannot control their children!